

Youth Evangelism Fund: Application process.

1. The young people are given a copy of the publicity and the aims of the Fund are explained to them by diocesan or local leaders.
2. If they wish to make an application they are given the following questions:

What do you want to do?

Why do you want to do it?

How much money do you need altogether, and what will you spend it on?

How much of this do you want as a grant from the Youth Evangelism Fund?

How will you know that your plans have worked?

3. Applicants will also be invited, if they wish, to offer additional material, whether written or audio-visual, in support of the application; but the postcard-sized questions constitute the application form in its entirety.
4. Applications will be filtered first by local diocesan staff (who will also tell us whether their projects have applied for or received funding from other sources) and forwarded to Church House.
5. If information is particularly thin an application may then be passed to a member of an “advocacy team”.
6. The application’s advocate can then telephone, text or email the young applicants and find out the “feel” of the project from them. All advocates will be CRB cleared and diocesan offices will have told applicants that they may be receiving calls, and who might be calling.
7. At the meeting of the grants group the mini-application form, together with any additional material from the group and the advocate’s report, will form the information on the basis of which a decision will be made.
8. After a project is over, in the light of the last of the questions (How will you know that your plans have worked?), the young people will submit a report in whatever medium they choose.
